

The Microbiology Society

Who we are

- One of the largest microbiological societies in Europe, with over 6,000 members in 90+ countries
- Co-founded in 1945 by Sir Alexander Fleming
- We are the membership charity for scientists interested in microbes

Five reasons to join the Microbiology Society...

1. Stand out from the crowd

Build your professional profile and presence amongst future employers, partners and funders to advance your career and enhance your job prospects.

2. Attend our Annual Conference

See great science and hear great speakers at preferential rates.

Ticket	1 day Early bird
Non-member	£225
Full member	£123
Concessionary member	£72
Student	£62

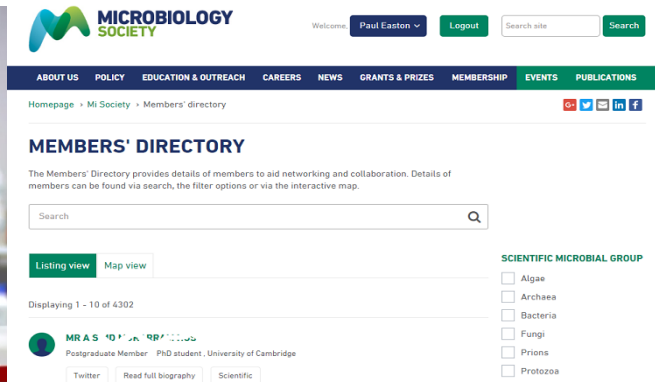

3. Apply for a grant or attend a networking event

Unlock a wide range of travel, research and skills development opportunities.

4. Explore the wider microbiology community

Reach out to other members through the online Members' Directory.

5. Discover new opportunities

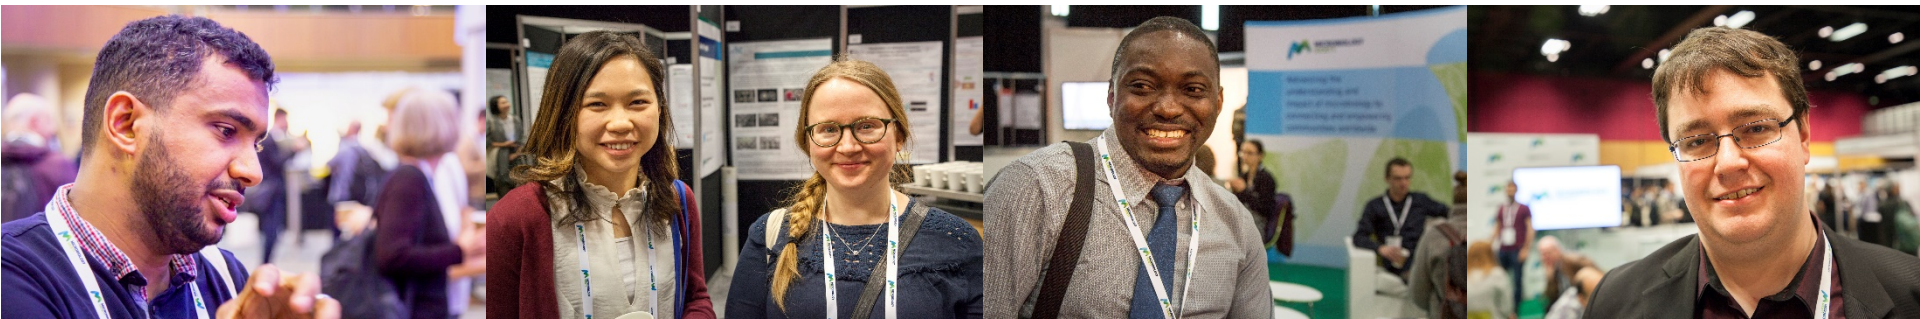

Join the Early Career Microbiologists' (ECM) Forum and help shape our work, win prizes and awards to achieve career recognition.

Membership

Undergraduate Student rates start from £18/year

Postgraduate Student rates start from £41/year

Membership

Join online at microbiologysociety.org or call +44(0)203 034 4871

